

Fantasy and Science Fiction
La Grange Public Library

H.I.V.E.* by Mark Walden

Otto is kidnapped and taken to the Higher Institute of Villainous Education, where he tries to band together with other students and escape before it is too late.

The Last Apprentice* series by Joseph Delaney

Tom and Mr. Gregory (The Spook) are busy ridding the country of boggarts, witches, ghosts and the worst creature of all – The Bane!

Gregor the Overlander* series by Suzanne Collins

Gregor climbs down an air chute to rescue his sister, Boots, and finds himself in the fantastic kingdom of the Underlanders, ruled by giant bugs.

Hungry* by Aletha Eason

How would you feel if you were an alien, just trying to fit in on Earth, and you were ordered to eat your sixth-grade boyfriend?

The Palace of Laughter* by Jon Berkeley

The adventures of Miles Wednesday and his companion Little, as they are captured and taken from their circus to the Palace of Laughter. The Wednesday Tales, No. 1.

Drift House* by Dale Peck

After being sent to live with eccentric Uncle Farley, three siblings find themselves setting sail in his unusual house.

Percy Jackson and the Olympians* series by Rick Riordan

Percy is really the son of Poseidon and a mortal woman. Lots of characters from Greek mythology are included.

Fly By Night* by Frances Hardinge

Imagine a world where all books are banned, and reading brings dangers to overcome!

The Eidolon Chronicles* by Jane Johnson

Iggy the tabby cat has been kidnapped from the Secret Country, and Ben must help him restore the Kingdom of Eidolon.

The Squampkin Patch* by J.T. Petty

Roald Dahl fans will love the Nasselrogt children's adventures as they are sent off to the zipper factory.

The Book of Story Beginnings* by Kristin Kladstrup

Lucy follows the path of her great-uncle Oscar, who found that you had better be prepared to follow the path of any story you begin!

Tunnels* by Roderick Gordon

While searching for his missing archeologist father, Will discovers a strange new world beneath the city of London, inhabited by people who hate the "Topsoilers" like Will who live above ground.

Woolies and Worms* by Stephen MacNeil

Eleven-year-old Sarah is swept overboard during a pirate raid. She ends up on an island run by the evil Mr. Grim, who forces children to spend their time weaving rugs.

George's Secret Key to the Universe* by Lucy and Stephen Hawking

George travels through space to study black holes and other mysteries.

Go Big or Go Home* by Will Hobbs

Brady's close encounter with a meteorite when it crashes through his bedroom ceiling makes him feel strange and leads him on wild adventures with his cousin.

The Seems – the Glitch in Sleep* by John Hulme

Our world is actually maintained by "The Seems." Becker is a "Fixer", who must repair a glitch that prevents anyone from sleeping, ever again.

Questors* by Joan Lennon

Three children are assembled, and then sent off to save three worlds that have been adversely affected by an enemy force.

The Eidolon Chronicles* by Jane Johnson

Ben and his sisters are actually half-elfin royalty from Eidolon. They must try to stop their uncle from running a smuggling ring, selling magical creatures.

The Candy Shop War* by Brandon Mull

A trio of fifth graders are given magical candy that has powerful but dangerous consequences when eaten.

Alcatraz Versus the Evil Librarians* by Brandon Sanderson

Alcatraz receives a magical bag of sand for his birthday, which is immediately stolen by evil librarians who want to take over the world. Can he and his grandfather stop them?

The Name of this Book is Secret* by Pseudonymous Bosch

A mysterious box of vials sends two kids on the search for an odd magician who has disappeared. Lots of word games and anagrams to solve, too!

The Measle series* by Ian Ogilvy.

Poor Measle Stubbs has an evil guardian, Basil Tramplebone, who shrinks him down to an inch tall in the first book, Measle and the Wrathmonk.

Gideon The Cutpurse* by Linda Buckley-Archer

Thanks to an anti-gravity machine, Peter and Kate fall from the 21st Century into 1763.

Leven Thumps and the Gateway to Foo* by Obert Skye

Leven Thumps must travel far from his Oklahoma home to save the land called Foo.

